Ingredients

- 2 vine ripe tomatoes — diced
- 5 fresh basil leaves — chiffonade
- 3 tbsp extra virgin olive oil — divided
- 1/2 tsp dried oregano
- pinch salt
- 1 tsp balsamic vinegar
- 1 Italian-style baguette — sliced
- 1 garlic clove — whole

Instructions

1. Combine the diced tomatoes with the fresh basil, dried oregano, a pinch of salt, 1 to 1½ tablespoons of the olive oil, and a splash (1 teaspoon) of balsamic vinegar. Chill.
2. Slice the baguette into ¼ to ½-inch slices. Cut off the end of the garlic clove and rub the garlic onto each side of each piece of bread. Drizzle both sides of the sliced bread with a little olive oil (or brush it on with a brush).
3. Toast on a grill or in a hot skillet until browned on both sides.
4. Top the hot bread with the cold tomato bruschetta and serve immediately.
